February 2010

Dear
Friends,

Thank God winter is almost over. Spring break will soon be here and little hands need things to do. We accept all ideas.

I was at the shelter last night. A boy came up to me and held what he said was a dream catcher. It was made from his shoe strings. He explained he puts it under his pillow and it helps him sleep and dream about what he wants to become.

I told him I would get information for him about the Native Art, and also some ribbons. He could search the grounds for feathers from birds too. This gave him more to dream of and encouraged him to dream. Finding the little things of interest can open their world just because you care and help us to help them.

Child of the Month

The phone rang. No answer. After some time, a weak voice answered "This is Asia". "Hi Mrs. Condo, this is Asia. I just had a baby girl". What a privilege to be called on the 1st child. I hadn't heard from Asia for about 5 years. For her to call me means she remembered the love and caring she experienced at One Way Farm Childrens Home. Many children just call and leave a message. Some say "you were my home and my mother". There are other things such as the other night, my teaching a boy how to hang up his pants. The next day 3rd shift called. This child was going to school in his P.J.'s. I spoke to him and said "if you wear your P.J's to school, I'll meet you at school to remove them." I called back later to see what had happened. "He changed and wore his jeans" she said. Tough love always teaches. As long as there is Love.

Miss Universal Pageant

Do you or your company have a fearless man to join in ?

Contestants will raise pledges in a fierce competition to support the children and be crowned our 2nd Miss Universal. Please call Brenda at 829-3074 for your reservation. Tickets are $30.00 each, $240.00 for a table of eight. Where else can you go for $30.00 and have so much fun for a good cause?

We've made some additions to our Animal Therapy Program! This is a picture of our new goats. We have three named Eli, Velvet, and Buddy. They love children but they need goat food and alfalfa.

We are looking for a volunteer to put One Way Farm onto Facebook and Twitter. Can you help?

We are in need of an electrician volunteer. If you can help, please call our office

We are in need of new floor tile for our Boy's House. The dining room and kitchen areas needs replacement. Please call us if you can help!
